58.1	PRESIDENT’S ADDRESS The President read her address to the AGM with the following highlights: She welcomed members to the 58th Annual General Meeting of the NSE. She expressed appreciation to Members, Council, EXCO, Committees, Branches, Divisions, Staff, and Partners for their support and contributions to the development of the Nigerian Society of Engineers (NSE). She reported that, since the commencement of her administration in January 2024, NSE had implemented the Margaret Oguntala Presidency Strategic Agenda (MOPSA), adopted by Council as the “NSE Strategic Document”, which was anchored on five key pillars: Membership Development; Intergovernmental, Industry, and Academia Collaboration; International Relations and Global Engagement; Community Impact; and Re-imaging, Governance, and Socials. Under Membership Development, the President reported significant growth in NSE's membership, including an increase of over 30% in total membership, growth in corporate membership, increased Fellowship admissions, enhanced CPD programmes, automation of membership processing, elimination of backlogs, and the introduction of the NSE Membership App. She also highlighted the launch of the YEFON digital platform, reopening of Life Membership, and establishment of new Branches and the NSE Cooperative Society. On Intergovernmental, Industry, and Academia Collaboration, she reported that the NSE had strengthened its engagement with the Presidency, National Assembly, Federal and State Governments, and various regulatory agencies. She stated that NSE had intensified advocacy for the inclusion of Nigerian engineers in national projects, supported the implementation of Executive Order 5, and provided technical advice on critical national issues. She also highlighted strategic partnerships and the donation of engineering software valued at $17.4 million to 15 Nigerian universities. Regarding International Relations and Global Engagement, the President reported that the NSE had strengthened its relationships with international engineering organisations and expanded engagement with diaspora Branches. She highlighted NSE's participation in major global engineering events and partnerships, noting that these engagements had enhanced the visibility and international standing of Nigerian engineers. Under Community Impact, she reported that NSE had expanded training and capacity development programmes, revitalised mentorship, supported humanitarian interventions, and strengthened the activities of Branches and Divisions. She noted that Branches had undertaken community-oriented projects, including solar-powered bus shelters, boreholes, STEM initiatives, and school programmes. Infrastructure development and improvements to NSE properties were also highlighted. On Re-imaging, Governance, and Socials, the President reported that NSE had adopted a 10-year Strategic Agenda based on the MOPSA framework to ensure continuity and sustainable institutional development. She further highlighted the attainment of ISO 9001:2015 certification for the NSE Headquarters, which she described as a significant milestone in improving quality, transparency, accountability, and service delivery. She also reported improvements in NSE's financial management, including strengthened financial and procurement procedures, improved revenue generation, and greater transparency. She reported that her administration had commenced the digitalisation of the Secretariat through the Electronic Document Management System (EDMS), development of an e-library, and improvements to the Headquarters environment. The President further reported governance reforms, including quarterly CADENCE meetings, restructuring of committees, review of Terms of Reference, and introduction of continuous feedback mechanisms. Staff welfare initiatives, including salary review, staff engagement activities, and improved leadership accessibility, were also highlighted as measures that had contributed to improved staff morale and productivity. In her reflection on the administration's tenure, the President stated that the collective achievements had stabilised, strengthened, and modernised the NSE, restored pride in NSE, and positioned it for future growth. She emphasised that the achievements were collective and not attributable to any single individual. She charged the incoming administration to safeguard the gains recorded, build on existing achievements, uphold professional ethics, support Branches, and protect the interests of engineers. She also called on Nigerian engineers to take the lead in emerging areas of technology and national development, including renewable energy, artificial intelligence, biotechnology, defence systems, and advanced manufacturing. In conclusion, the President expressed appreciation to all members, officers, staff, and partners for their dedication and support throughout the administration. She reaffirmed her confidence in the future of the NSE and the engineering profession and called for continued collective commitment towards building a stronger engineering profession and a better Nigeria.
