

Free training opportunity: FACILITATION ESSENTIALS

ABOUT THE COURSE

RedR UK and the Federation of African Engineering Organisations (FAEO) are offering a free-of-charge, innovative, high-quality online training course aiming to provide participants with the technical skills and knowledge to design and facilitate effective online training programmes.

The 3-hour session will include:

- Learning about all five steps in the training cycle from identifying learning needs through to evaluating training. It is divided into three sessions - principles, process, and practice.
- Participatory sessions, modelling good practice and encouraging participants to focus on their own specific needs, plans and projects.

The course is interactive, and attendees are expected to contribute and take part in activities. There are five courses being run across sub-Saharan Africa – all sessions run for 3 hours and are delivered on Zoom.

WHO SHOULD ATTEND?

This course is designed for people who need to design and deliver training as part of their role. It is particularly geared towards those who would like to learn more about online training delivery and how to deliver training in a way that is participatory and impactful. The course is tailored to those working in the engineering profession in Africa.

Participants who complete the course will receive a personalised HPASS digital certification badge, outlining their achievement.

COURSE DATES:

West Africa: 23rd February, 2pm (WAT)
East Africa: 18th March, 5pm (EAT)
Central Africa: 6th April, 4pm (CAT)
Southern Africa: 28th April, 4pm (SAST)
